

Pinzgauer Field Days July 19-22 Across The U.S.

At least 250 guests, including 70 from overseas, are expected to attend three International Pinzgauer Field Days across the United States July 19, 21 and 22, which follows the Fourth International Pinzgauer Congress in Calgary, Alta., Canada July 12 to 17, according to Kermit Gardner, East Point, Ga., president of American Pinzgauer Assn. The July 19 Field Day will be held at Wyoming Pinzgauer Ranch, Sheridan, according to Joe Fletcher, Chairman of the United States Tour. A preliminary part of this very educational field day will be a tour of Bob Mock's Farm, with time to examine all the personnel and pureblood Pinzgauer cattle there, before going to Lance Fletcher's to see the extensive work that Fletcher has done with on-farm testing of Pinzgauer cattle. Steers will be shown sorted into pairs by sire. These steers will have just completed a 140-day feedlot test.

Jerry Dunn of Bradford, Arkansas displayed these Pinzgauer cattle at the ASU Pinzgauer Field Day held May 11 at the Beebe Branch. Part of the field day included a discussion on the advantages of Pinzgauer cattle and the advantages of crossbreeding.

A supervised test completed recently, proved Pinzgauer do extremely well in the feedlot. A group of 68 head finished with a 3.55-pound per day average gain with a feed conversion of 7.50 pounds feed for one pound gain, and an average feedlot cost of 86 cents per pound of gain, which includes all feedlot costs, not just feed costs.

Coloman Pinzgauer Farms of Bloomsdale, Mo., and Jerry Dunn of Bradford, Arkansas displayed Pinzgauer cattle at the Pinzgauer Field Day at Arkansas State University, Beebe Branch, May 11, 1978. The Field Day was held in conjunction with an ASU Beef Cattle Nutrition Seminar under the direction of Jimmy Joe Robinson.

Other U.S. Field Days will be at the USDA Meat Animal Research Center, Clay Center, Neb., on July 21, where a unique opportunity will be offered for Pinzgauer breeders to review the work being carried on at the research station using Pinzgauer cattle in crossbreeding experiments, says Alton Larson, Stromsburg, Neb., chairman of this Field Day.

Dr. Larry V. Cundiff, genetic research leader at the test center, will moderate a panel of animal scientists who will explain the various experimental projects in progress or completed using Pinzgauer cattle. They will also explain the goals of the Research Center and how they plan to use Pinzgauer in the future. Cattlemen will have an opportunity to ask questions about the cattle operations here and how results can be implemented at home.

If Ralco's Suppli-mix could save you 12 to 15% on your feed bills would you listen?

Like thousands of other cattlemen, Waldo Haythorn did:

"I've fed Suppli-mix for two years free choice to 6,000 head of cattle. We've cut our winter protein costs from $45,000 to $20,000. Also, I've been able to increase the cattle per section of pasture by 15%. To test Ralco Suppli-mix, I split herds, one on it, one not. The Ralco herd had calves 40 lbs. heavier at 8 months, and the cows and heifers were much healthier."

- Non-toxic, safe at any reasonable level.
- Not a drug so no FDA restrictions apply. No forms, no withdrawal.

COSTS AS LITTLE AS 3¢ PER DAY OR 90¢ PER MONTH!

Here's how Suppli-mix works:

Unlike conventional feed additives, Ralco Suppli-mix has the ability to make essential amino acids more available than they would ordinarily be. In addition, Suppli-mix contains highly soluble cobalt, which is readily converted to vitamin B₁₂ in the rumen. It's a fact that in order for propionic acid (the most efficient of the three volatile fatty acids) to be absorbed and utilized, vitamin B₁₂ must be present. Ralco's special form of cobalt insured B₁₂ is always there. The combined results are showing a 12 to 15% increase in feed efficiency on literally thousands of cattle in feed lots and pasturing situations.

once Foundation, like the one where a young lady is enjoyin' a two-year sabbatical in Africa to study how much the young male gorillas hump each other around among the females of the other bands and while these capers might be interesting to us catfishers out why our tax dollars should finance her observations. Another place to start savin' Big Money might be to blow the whistle on the Federal Trade Commission's efforts to control TV commercial during the kid show periods. Somebody figured out that young ones spend more time in front of the T.V. than they do in school, which may account for their inability to read, write and figure, but we have a hard time figuring out what business it is of the U.S. Govt. what happens in the homes of the natives and if Momma or Papa buy sugary confections or cereals. Of course, if parents don't want their kids to eat sugary stuff all they have to do is say NO! If a temper tantrum starts they can always apply the hand-er-which-the-kid's-seat-of-learning until he discovers who is running the show.

Another place we might save a grand total of $20 million dollars would be to head off USDA's Carol Tucker Foreman's notion that we ought to blow that match down on a program under which States "will provide children, teachers and school food service personnel with training on the important relationship between nutrition, good food and health. This training will help them become better informed, more knowledgeable consumers," Mrs. Foreman points out. The program would be based on a rate of 60¢ (four bits) for each kid enrolled in a school or institution. Under this program California would get $2,432,342 and Texas would get $2,085,754 and Texas would get $1,499,482 as the top three in this scheme. So now the kids, school teachers & school food specialists would presumably all know at 60¢ what to feed the young ones and with the F.T.C. telling 'em what kids can watch on T.V., we can all relax and let the Govt. run the show.

This list of stuph is endless and since we of California's H&W admit they lose $9 or $7 billion through holes in their administration, it does appear the Natives have a right not only to be resilient but also, as NBO decided, Mad as Hell. Ever think, The Bullard.

P. S. Uncle Dink notes where there's a Big Cowboy over the Turkey Turkey Ham and the Big Turkey don't like it one bit. Dink remembers one time when the late Clint Walker, a Red Worthy, commission and an avid hunter of lambs and Swift & Co. sent some lamb legs to him and you had to be a gourmet to eat the difference. Dink says now you can expect the Big Turkey in Govt. at all levels. Dink claims cutbacks in Park Barre Projects of the Indiana Proposition 13 Syndrome. Dink is to blame for the Ape cutbacks in the State of Indiana. Dink is to blame for the Ape cutbacks in the State of Indiana. Dink is to blame for the Ape cutbacks in the State of Indiana.

The Circle Seven Commercial Brangus Bull.

Why do you think so many cowmen have been buying him?
Like all other types of businessmen, it is necessary that a cowman make daily decisions affecting his operation. He must project his needs for the future and select the methods of management that will keep him in the black. A good cowman plans and chooses carefully. He knows the importance of getting a return on every investment he makes. He can't take chances; not on the nutrition of his cattle, and not on his bulls.
Circle Seven takes out the guess work involved with buying commercial bulls. Each and every bull produced by Circle Seven is performance tested. The data is assembled for the buyer and each bull that leaves the ranch is guaranteed to be a sound breeder.

More and more cattlemen are switching to Circle Seven bred Brangus bulls. The fact is, last year more than 420 head went into commercial herds in 5 states. These cattlemen not only like the quality they like the price.

Cattlemen Damned Mad

"With proper economic incentive, U. S. cattlemen are quite capable of supplying the consumer with an adequate supply of beef at reasonable prices in relation to incomes. But we will not be able to do this if you choose to erode our market with unreasonable actions on imports and with a continuation of irresponsible bureaucratic regulations. The U. S. consuming public will best be served by a healthy domestic food industry, unencumbered by excessive government meddling."

Following is the text of McDougal's letter to President Jimmy Carter.
The Honorable Jimmy Carter
The President of the United States
Washington, D. C. 20500
Dear Mr. President:
Your recent decision to provide access for an additional 200 million pounds of imported beef under the illusion of moderating consumer prices was, to the U. S. cattle industry, an extremely discouraging blow.

I assume you were briefed on the economic status of our industry. You are aware, then, that for more than four years we have been in an extremely deep depression. Only recently have cattlemen begun to realize or see prospects for a profit. Actually, most cattlemen have not yet experienced the recently improved prices for their beef, but they have not yet marked their 1978 crop of cattle.

Assuming you were briefed on the situation, I can only conclude that you chose to ignore the recommendations of impartial analysts as well as those of cattlemen. I refer you to a May, 1978, publication, "Retail Meat Prices in Perspective," written by James E. Nix, livestock economist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The publication said: "Just when (beef) prices are beginning to signal producers to start rebuilding their herds, proposals are being forth for their further price increases. Any such governmental actions should be carefully examined for their potential in stimulating continued herd sell-offs. Because, if herd reduction does not stop soon, the annual per capita consumption of beef during one of the next three years could drop below the lowest level of the past decades. Since consumers have demonstrated strong preference for beef, anything that further reduces supplies will exert even more upward pressure on beef prices and total food costs."

Mr. President, I also vividly recall statements which you made at a White House meeting on February 14, 1978, with representatives of all of U. S. agriculture. You stated that:
1. The only truly viable method of improving the agricultural economic picture was through the free market system.
2. Further government involvement would not cure any of the ills of the marketplace.
3. Demand was strengthening by virtue of the continuing population increase.
4. You were confident that renewed prosperity for farmers and ranchers was coming soon because of the basic supply and demand factors.

You had no intention of interfering with the free market system. Now, for the first time since 1978, cattlemen's revenues are held promise of exceeding our escalating costs for an extended period. But you have chosen to do the very thing which, in February, you said was wrong. You have chosen to interfere with the free market system. We recognize that beef prices have risen rapidly recently, and understandably this is of concern to the public. However, the fact is that this increase has come only after four years of low prices. Even now the public is spending a smaller share of its income on beef than it historically has. Yet you have chosen to step in in the face of a continuing decline in beef prices. And the bottom line, over the longer term, will be higher and higher food prices for consumers, with an increase in returns to already hard-pressed agriculture. We are concerned not just with your action to increase imports, but with your very concern about what this kind of action portends for the future, in terms of interference with the free market system. How can we make decisions which will affect beef supplies two or three years from now if we have no assurance that the government will not step in again and halt any improvement in returns to producers?

I respectfully request an audience with you to further explain to you why your most recent action was extremely ill-advised. And we need some idea as to what we might expect from your administration in terms of policy toward the livestock industry. With proper economic incentive, U. S. cattlemen are quite capable of supplying the consumer with an adequate supply of beef at reasonable prices in relation to income. But we will not be able to do this if you choose to erode our market with unreasonable actions on imports and with a continuation of irresponsible bureaucratic regulations. The U. S. consuming public will best be served by a healthy domestic food industry, unencumbered by excessive government meddling.

I await your early reply, and I entreat you an opportunity to personally explain upon our deep concerns.

Sincerely,
Richard A. McDougal
President
